New Products Bring Need for New Training

As Windows 8 and Office 2013 make their way into more schools, campuses, and offices, even experienced computer users may find themselves puzzled by some of the new features. Fortunately, the Access Technology Center staff at Blind and Vision Rehabilitation Services of Pittsburgh are available to provide training that quickly helps users get up to speed on these new programs.

For working adults who often have little time to learn new products, ATC offers a remote training option. Our instructors can connect to a client's computer and provide audio instruction by phone or FaceTime.

For more details on new products and training, please contact Spero Pipakis, 412-368-4400 ext. 3415, or spipakis@pghvis.org.
